Second Specialization Course for Junior Prosecutors

This course is specifically designed for prosecutors to gain expertise in the international aspects of their work and build professional networks. It is divided into two modules, each one including interactive lectures, and workshops and practical exercises.

What are the objectives of the course?

- Enable participants to make full use of international criminal law principles to develop successful strategies in handling investigations and prosecutions with an international dimension
- Provide participants with the necessary legal and practical tools to prosecute transnational crimes
- Build a global informal mutual legal assistance network for a more efficient cooperation among prosecutors

What will the two modules address?

- International Criminal Law and International Criminal Justice
- International Cooperation in Criminal Matters and Transnational Crimes

Why participate?

- As a Prosecutor, you will be offered a unique setting to network and exchange experiences and good practice with your peers from all over the world
- You will benefit from lectures and practical exercises based on case studies to enhance your knowledge and skills

How to apply?

- The registration will be open online (www.isisc.org) from December 1st, 2016
- You can register for either or both of the above modules
- A sponsorship programme will be available for participants from particular countries

Where and When?

- July 3-14, 2017, Siracusa, Italy
